

Elena Sacca Smith

Group Manager for the Office of Social Innovation, Toyota North America

Elena Sacca Smith is the Group Manager for the Office of Social Innovation at Toyota North America. In this role, Smith provides oversight and leadership of the company's corporate social responsibility strategies, communications, measurement, and operations to advance the company's social impact and Diversity + Inclusion efforts. Smith is the host of The CauseGirl Podcast, which inspires women to feel good by doing good. She is a Fellow at the Aspen Institute and serves on the Executive Forum for Boston College's Center for Corporate Citizenship. Smith serves on the Board of Directors for Girl Scouts of Northeast Texas and is a Lifetime Member of Girl Scouts. Previously, she oversaw Corporate Social Responsibility and Corporate Communications at Toyota Financial Services with prior roles in marketing, investor relations and communications in the technology sector. Elena holds a BS in Education from the University of Delaware and a Certificate in Corporate Citizenship Leadership from Boston College.

LinkedIn: <https://www.linkedin.com/in/elenasaccasmith/>